Description

AVS 72 - International Symposium and Exhibition

The AVS International Symposium and Exhibition provides platform for discussing state-of-the-art advances in atomic-scale processing, characterization, measurement, and simulation of materials, surfaces, interfaces, and devices.

From fundamental science to manufacturing, this Symposium provide a multidisciplinary environment where participants from industry, government labs, and academia can collaborate and explore research in vacuum technology, thin films, plasma science, microelectronic devices, quantum computing, 2D materials, nanostructures, biomaterials, surface and interfacial phenomena–and much more.
